

CNS Marching Band Forum (Using Google Groups)

LOGIN HELP

For help logging in to the forum, refer to one of the two pictures below that represents your current view to help diagnose your issue. If you still are unable to log in, please contact webmaster@cnsmarchingband.org.

CNS Marching Band Bulletin Board

You must be signed in and a member of this group to view and participate in it.

Sign in to view this group

What does this mean?

You are not currently logged in to the forum.

What do I do now?

If you know that you are a member of the group, select "Sign in to view this group" to open the Google login screen. Enter your log in information at the Google login screen. The forum will then be displayed. If you remain logged in to your account, then the forum will open automatically the next time you open the "Member Forum" webpage.

CNS Marching Band Bulletin Board

You must be a member of this group to view and participate in it.

You cannot view this group's content because you are not currently a member.

Report this group

What does this mean?

Your computer is currently logged into a Google Account that is not registered as a member account. (Note: This does not necessarily mean you are a member of the forum.) This message is typical on computers that are used by multiple people or by users who have multiple Google Accounts.

What do I do now?

Go to www.google.com to logout of the current account. You can either log in to the correct account at the Google login screen or go back to the Member Forum page and log in.

1. Go to www.google.com
2. In the upper right-hand corner of the webpage, select the blue account icon.
3. Select "Sign out"
4. Once complete, either return to the Member Forum page to log in or select the blue "Sign In" box in the upper right hand corner of the google.com webpage.

